The Civil Department of Sardar Patel College of Engineering carried out a fun and informative project activity of Agro-tourism for the class of Second Year Engineering students as a part of their academic site visits. these visits are mainly carried out for students to gain knowledge of actual site work and management techniques. During this visit an entertaining as well as informative activity of agro- tourism was carried out by our Faculty coordinator prof. Mrs. Reshma Raskar-Phule along with our campaign coordinator Ms. Gargi Bhosale for all the college students there. this activity received a great response from students.

Whole of this activity majorly covered an area of how are things been worked out at the site. The caretakers and owners prefer organic as well as high quality fertilizers in their farm to enhance the rate of production and quality of product. They have majorly created their own mechanisms to help in their day to day activities. The site majorly included the farming of groundnut and a few oilseeds on smaller scale also coconuts and palms. This activity lasted for around 2 hours.
